

Excerpt from The Royal Law of Love: Or, Love in Relation to Law and to God; The Baccalaureate Sermon Preached Before the College of New Jersey, June 27, 1875 In these passages there is a reference to three things, - to Love, to Law, and a King. I see before me an arch set up on earth, and spanning the heavens; the one side is -Law, the other side is Love, and the key-stone binding and crowning the whole is God. Our theme is the Royal Law of Love. Let us contemplate Love and Law first separately, and then in their combination in God. I. Love. It may manifest itself in two forms, which should be carefully distinguished. The Love of Complacency. We delight in the object or person beloved.
