

Come Unto Me: Daily Readings on the Sayings of Christ (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from Come Unto Me: Daily Readings on the Sayings of Christ
Not the labours of my hands Can fulfil Thy laws demands
Could my zeal no respite know, Could my tears for ever flow,
All for sin could not atone Thou must save, and Thou alone.
I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance. - Luke v. 32.
A message of hope and of humiliation I often hear in the present day that Christ is no greater than other teachers; that Buddha, or Socrates, or Aristotle, and the other great leaders of human thought, have morals as pure, precepts as perfect, and systems as holy, as Christianity itself. On every side and in every way this doctrine is pressed upon our attention; and it is well for us, as we consider the words of Christ, to ask, What is the difference between Christianity and other religions? To contend that there is no truth, no beauty, no purity. About the Publisher
