

Mission Possible: Becoming a soul winning agent

There are aids at the end of most of the chapters of this book that I believe will help readers who have not been actively involved in winning souls. There is nothing profound about these helps. They promote action, especially targeting specific souls and putting the readers intended action in writing. Research supports writing down your goals, commitments, and promises because it enhances the success of your desired actions. Curious? I hope you are. So put on your coat, dark sunglasses, and felt hat and lets get started on our mission to save the world.
