

Reflections of My Mind

Reflections Of My Mind looks into the heart, the minds and the souls of people. We all have these thoughts but find it hard to express at times. I have tried to put into words some of these thoughts. You will find words of beauty, and words of delight. There are words of happiness and words of pain. You will find words of love and devotion, and words of suffering and of mistrust. I think you will find words of peace and words of war. Words that will inspire you and words that may give you pain. You will surely find words that will open your mind and touch your soul.
