

Coloring Without the Lines

Within all of us there is the potential for greatness. It is hiding just below the surface, awaiting an opportunity to come out. Is your own vision of what your life should look like holding you back? Do you feel your unused potential boiling up inside you, with nowhere to go? Dana Trotter addresses these concerns in this eye-opening book that teaches you how to venture outside your comfort zone and truly live your best life. Much like in the coloring books in her youth, Trotter found the lines of her life restricting. Her dreams were not fulfilled, and she was not happy. She didn't desire fame or riches, she simply wanted to live a life that God would approve and that brought her joy. Through her life experiences she learned how to let go of what she thought her life should be, and break out from inside the lines. In her book she shares how to unlock your full potential: Letting go of toxic relationships Accepting and moving on from hardship Seizing the one life you are given and taking advantage of opportunities Understanding the nature and limitations of love Instead of accepting what you think your life has to look like, take the first steps toward genuine happiness. This book is both a relevant and a wonderful testament to the power of God in the lives of those who believe and trust in him. Simply put, it is life changing and will create life changing results for anyone who follows the examples within it. Reading Coloring Without the Lines will show you how to let go of perceived limitations, and live beyond the lines. Dana Trotter brings energy, insight, and passion to everything she does. Dana is also striving to empower the people of God to reach their potential in God. She holds a Bachelor degree in Art from Ohio University. She also holds a Master in Religion from Cincinnati Christian University and is currently pursuing a Master in Education from Xavier University. She has been a part of

Make It Plain Consultants since the summer of 2014. She is a minister and noteworthy writer. Coloring without the Lines is her premier book where she shares some of the life lessons that have allowed her to flourish. She attends Tyrus Christian Fellowship in Cincinnati, Ohio.
