

What Shall the Redeemed Wear?

You're not wearing that, are you? Such questions often lead into quarrelsome conflicts. Dad wants his son to look more decent and Mom is not happy with her daughters wardrobe. One way to stir up strife is to register a concern about immodesty and indecency. The conflict is fueled by those who say God doesn't care how you dress. He looks on the heart, not the outward appearance. Is that really what the Bible teaches? Is it true that God doesn't care how His redeemed children dress themselves? What does the Bible say about appearance? You will find this book refreshingly honest, like a cool refreshing drink on a hot summer day. The clear well-illustrated teaching of old truths is a breath of fresh air for those who are seeking relief from the endless merry-go-round of fashion that has so captivated many in the Christian world. Glenn Yoder of Rosewood Fellowship, Middlebury, Indiana. This book has served many through personal studies and group studies. Every preacher and Bible teacher could benefit from this book.
